FAITH FACTS

The reading from the Book of Joshua

The Israelites wandered in the wilderness for forty years after escaping from Egypt. During that time they fed on the miraculous bread, manna. When they entered the promised land, they had no more need of manna, and it ceased. The 'parched grain' referred to in the reading was probably grains of threshed wheat, roasted over a fire on an iron pan, while being stirred constantly. In biblical times, parched wheat was a common food. (Information on 'parched grain' taken from the International Standard Bible Encyclopedia.)
